No. 96

The Krishnamurti Foundation of America (KFA) recently released Bulletin #96, which includes previously unpublished Krishnamurti material on the topic of choiceless awareness.

Choiceless awareness was the KFA theme for 2022. It is also the title of one of Krishnamurti's study books, which facilitates a deeper understanding of what he calls awareness. Buy the book here.

The state of seeing is more important than what is seen

"When you are observing, seeing the dirt on the road, seeing how the politicians behave, seeing your own attitude towards your wife, your children, and so on—transformation is there. Do you understand?"

To bring about some kind of order in daily life, that is transformation; not something extraordinary, out of this world.

When one is not thinking clearly, objectively, and rationally, be aware of that and change it, break it. That is transformation. If you are jealous—watch it, don't give it time to flower and change it immediately. That is transformation. When you are greedy, violent, ambitious, or trying to become some kind of holy man, see how it is creating a world of tremendous uselessness. I don't know if you are aware of this. Competition is destroying the world. The world is becoming more and more competitive, more and more aggressive, and if you change it immediately, that is transformation. And if you go very much deeper into the problem, it is clear that thought denies love.

Therefore one has to find out whether there is an end to thought, an end to time, not philosophise over it and discuss it, but find out. Truly that is transformation, and if you go into it very deeply, transformation means never a thought of becoming or comparing; it is being absolutely nothing."

Commentaries on Living Read by Terence Stamp 3

Commentaries on Living is one of Krishnamurti's most well-known and best loved books. In it, he recalls many of the private conversations with those who came to see him. With encouragement from Aldous Huxley these meetings were written down by Krishnamurti and published in 1956. Chapters included in this episode are titled Three Pious Egoists, Identification, Gossip & Worry, Thought & Love, Aloneness & Isolation, and Pupil & Master.

Terence Stamp is an Oscar-nominated actor, known for his roles in The Limey, Superman, The Collector, Wall Street and many others. It was through working with Fellini that he met and became friends with Krishnamurti, who, in Stamp's words, 'used his presence to pause my thinking.'

Thank you to the Karina Library in Ojai, California and to Terence Stamp for these recordings

Krishnamurti Postal Lending Library Book Review

Candles in the Sun by Lady Emily Lutyens

This book is by Lady Emily Lutyens, and was published in 1957. It is a bridge between her involvement in the Theosophical Society (TS) and her relationship with the young Krishnamurti. Lady Emily was the mother of Mary Lutyens, the major biographer of K.

The book will be of special interest to those who are interested in Krishnamurti's connection with the TS, and the events that eventually led to his dissolution of “the Order of the Star in the East”, which was the organisation that had been created to launch Krishnamurti on the world as the world teacher – the term “World Messiah” was used in fact. Lady Emily was in a unique position to describe those events. Apart from her closeness to K, (she has sometimes been described as a surrogate mother to him, and the great love that she held for him comes out in the book), she was very active in the TS affairs, and had a close relationship with such leading lights in the movement as Mrs Besant and C.W. Leadbeater, As she writes in her forward to the book:

“This is the story of a spiritual ferment. It tells of my joining the Theosophical Society in 1910 and of how I came to leave it 20 years later; of the difficulties which my new faith caused in my domestic life, and of the slow dissolution of that faith. It is, moreover, an account of Krishnamurti, with whom I have been intimately associated since he first came to England as a boy of 15. Others can tell better than I of Krishnamurti's present teaching but I do not think there is anyone living who can give such a true account of his training, personality, and development in the days when Theosophists hailed him as the coming Messiah, and of his gradual breaking away from the organisations which had proclaimed him”.

Incidentally the Library has copies of the “Star Bulletin” from the 20's and 30's, some of which were edited by Lady Lutyens, and contain articles by her. They were “the Official Organ of the Order of the Star”, and their main purpose was to publish articles and speeches by Krishnamurti at the yearly camps held in Holland, United States, and gatherings in India.

Krishnamurti formally dissolved the Order of the Star at Castle Eerde in Holland, (which had been gifted to him, and which he returned after the dissolution), in 1929.

This review ends with an extract from Krishnamurti's famous “Pathless Land” speech:

“After careful consideration I have made this decision to dissolve the order. It is not from a momentary impulse. I have not been persuaded to it by anyone – I am not persuaded in such things. For two years I have been thinking about this, slowly, carefully, patiently, and I have now decided to disband the order as I happen to be its head. You can find new organisations, and expect someone else, with that I am not concerned, nor with the creating of new cages, or new decorations for those cages. My only concern is to set men absolutely, unconditionally free”.

Krishnamurti and his brother Nitya arrive in England for the first time March 1911
